Special Information Report

A+ Making the Grade

In order to help consumers make better-informed decisions on where to spend their hard-earned dollars, Better Business Bureau today announced it will now assign letter grades to local businesses ranging from A+ to F. The letter grade system—which replaces a less-detailed scale of “satisfactory” or “unsatisfactory”—represents BBB’s degree of confidence that the business is operating in a trustworthy manner and will make a good faith effort to resolve customer concerns.

Consumers can research the grades local businesses by reviewing BBB Reliability Reports™, which are available online and free of charge at bbb.org. In addition to noting the business’s letter grade, BBB Reliability Reports™ also include details about integrity and performance, such as the number of complaints a business has received, their response to complaints, and details on any government actions against the business.

“Given the current tough economic conditions, consumers literally can’t afford to make bad buying decisions,” says Lynda Pascareta, BBB President and CEO. “These reports make it extremely easy and convenient for consumers to research and compare local businesses—before they buy.”

The companies listed in this ad have an A+ grade, the highest company rating offered by the Better Business Bureau.
